ABOUT THIS PROGRAMME

This Empowering Community Engagement Professionals (ECEP) Programme has been customised by Global Centre for Work-Applied Learning (GCWAL) and is delivered in collaboration with the Resources and Engineering Skills Alliance (RESA).

This work-based learning programme will provide community engagement professionals with the opportunity to participate in a collaborative, like-minded community while developing capability to effectively facilitate action learning teams to develop, implement and learn from the implementation of company specific Aboriginal workforce participation strategies.

This work-based learning programme which uses the Action Learning process will:

- focus on organisationally specific real community engagement problems
- encourage innovation and creativity of participants through the sharing of ideas as well as greater collaboration with other participants
- develop creative, flexible and successful plans to pressing issues within their respective organisations
- generate a tangible return on investment through the development and implementation of community engagement projects for their organisations
- provide opportunities for individual and team learning as the participants work on their projects, and
- drive improved practice in supporting Aboriginal people in the workplace.
